ANOUSHEH ANSARI

At age 17 Anousheh Ansari left her native Iran, dreaming of a new life in a nation where women were encouraged to seek higher education. The Plano entrepreneur and astronaut was co-founder and CEO of Telecom Technologies Inc. In 2006 she became the first astronaut of Iranian descent as part of the Soyuz TMA-9 trip to the International Space Station with NASA's Michael Lopez-Alegria and Russian cosmonaut Mikhail Tyurin. At 35, Ms Ansari was named 'the boldest newcomer' and was featured in a Fortune magazine list of America's 40 most successful business figures under the age of 40. Among her many awards are the Ellis Island Medal of Honor in recognition of her humanitarian efforts and the Orbit Award by the National Space Society.
